Important Adjuncts to Life.
If the telescope is the greatest of all eyes, the microscope is the most useful of all eyes. With the microscope and the telescope we look in opposite directions. The one shows us the infinitesimal universe, whereby the imagination is excited to conceptions of infinity, but the other reveals the infinitely small—the microbes, the germs, the cells. With the telescope we elevate the mind; with the microscope we combat the enemies of life. Both are the handmaids of science and civilization.

Cling to the Old Methods.
English "manufacturers' agents" are ready to present American goods to the trades in South America, but they are extremely conservative and dislike to promote fresh kinds of goods.

INTEREST TAKEN IN FIDDLERS' CONTEST

Old Time Tunes, Played by Ear, Promise to Bring Pleasant Memories of Pioneer Days.
On Monday night the stage at the Myers Theater will be transformed into a primitive log cabin of the early settlers, where the Dan Truellers of the county gathered and danced the old-fashioned cotillon to the tunes of the "Arkansas Traveler" or "Money Mule." The affair being the fiddlers' contest given under the auspices of the local Moose lodge.
The catchy music of the old-fashioned fiddler will move local dancers to the old buck and wing, shuffle and clop dancers and the tunes of "Too Much Mustard" and other selections that tend to entrance society through the eighty-seven steps of the tango and the old square dance music which inspired our grandmothers and which is hardly equalled by the modern ragtime. Special contests will be given for the best looking, laziest, worst fiddler. Classic music will also be played at the Moose contest for the player who mastered the fiddle by his own ear at home tuning out the strains of "Turkey in the Straw" will be before the footlights, competing for the prizes.

LOCAL FIVE BEATEN BY ELKHORN HIGHS

Janesville Five Lacked Confidence, Losing Poorly Played Contest by Score of 27 to 20.
Lack of confidence and fighting spirit, on the part of the Janesville high school basketball five, spelled defeat at Elkhorn last evening, the final score being 27 to 20 in favor of the Elkhorn players. Captain Hemmings does not hesitate to say that his team was not only lacking in fighting spirit on the part of the five, but the fact that the floor is about one-half regular size, which played a big part in Elkhorn's victory.
The lineup and score follows:
Janesville—Atwood, 1; Stewart and Stickney, 2; Capt. Hemmings, 3; Rau, 4; Dalton, 5.
Elkhorn—Lyons, 1; Hoffman, 2; r. f. Ohl, 3; Potter, 4; G. James, 5; Dooley.
Baskets—Hemmings, 4; Atwood, 4; Dalton, 1; Dooley, 4; Ohl, 2; Potter, 1; Lyons, 3.
Free Throws—Hemmings, 2; Dooley, 7.
Fouls called on Janesville, 10; Elkhorn, 4.
Referee, Porter, Elkhorn.
Umpire, Reno Koch, Janesville.

Today's Edgerton News.

Edgerton, Feb. 21.—Miss Ruth Birkmeyer went to Janesville last evening to spend the week end with relatives.
Mrs. Eddie B. James of this city is very sick at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Huxtable, at Mineral Point.
Miss Katherine Cullen spent Thursday and Friday with friends in Milton.
Miss Hazel Hoyte, bookkeeper at the Edgerton Wagon Works, will spend Sunday at her home in Beloit.
Miss Katherine Sharp of Madison is the week end guest at the Cullen home.
The Misses Katherine and Marie Roberty of Janesville will spend Sunday with the Misses Nichols.
A one-sided game of basketball between Wauwatesa and the local team was played here last evening, the game ending with a 56 to 13 score in favor of Edgerton. Edgerton was expected to lose only one out of the nine games they had previously played.
A boatload of twelve young people chartered by Miss K. Nichols were entertained at Miss Margaret Chamberlain at Indian Creek last evening.
A church social was held at G. Hanson's last evening. The ladies came in costumes representing different characters. The evening was spent with music, singing and games. Refreshments were served.
Misses Grace Stafford and Wilma Hurd spent today in Janesville.
Messrs. John Quigley and John Burns were Janesville callers today.
Situation Sized Up.
The young girl had been engaged as an amanuensis by a society woman. She discovered that nearly every day the husband and wife had a quarrel, so she gave notice that she was going to leave. "Why?" inquired the lady, in surprise. "Oh, you don't need an amanuensis, madam," replied the girl. "What you want is a war correspondent."

Side Lights On The Circus Business By D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.)
Many years ago with the Forepaugh show there was a pair of midgets. Major John Hertz and his wife. This couple were supposed to be the smallest married couple in the world, but they were bright and smart and both were well educated and interesting people to converse with. Their work at that time was in the side show, but as an extra attraction in the evening they, with other side show attractions, were brought into the big top and introduced as extra features to the concert after the big show was over.
Their home was in Salisbury, N. C., where Mrs. Hertz was born and raised. Her maiden name was Nale and while there were five or six children in the family all the rest of the children were even of more than ordinary size. They were of the family standing about six foot tall. Abe Nale, the older brother of the fame and his wife took charge of the side show in which they were exhibited with whatever show they happened to be traveling with.
Some years ago the major and his wife retired from the business and settled down in their old home in North Carolina, where the major has been engaged for some time as a clerk in a drug store, and he is the one entertainer of the crowds that gather in the drug store in the evening, telling of his experiences in show business years past.

I heard from them a short time ago and the major had just celebrated his sixtieth birthday. As they own a comfortable home in Salisbury this is where they expect to spend the remainder of their days, for the major declares that they are out of the business to stay. They never traveled with a show that they did not leave a good name and managers were always anxious to get Major Hertz and his wife as an attraction. They occupied a platform in the side show where they sold their pictures to visitors and a crowd of interested spectators could always be seen around their platform.
They lived a quiet life in their home town is evident from the fact that the major has a lucrative position in the drug store in his home city. I was very glad to hear from them once and now it will be a long time before I see them again. I was always interested in them.

Last week in a borough of New York was started a lawsuit among Mrs. Bailey's brothers and sisters. The late James A. Bailey, who for so many years was partner of P. T. Barnum, and in this suit will be involved something like five millions.
James A. Bailey for nearly half a century was one of the foremost show men in the world and his estate was valued at two objects in view—one of building up the largest show in the world for his name along with P. T. Barnum, and the other to accumulate millions which would make him go with such an enterprise. As there are but five heirs left to the millions would you not think that this equally divided would be a plenty for all? But this does not seem to be the case and now it will be a long time before we can decide where and to whom the millions will go.

The following from New York will give you the details of the trial, as it was commenced there week before last.
"New York City, Feb. 7.—Approximately $5,000,000 are involved in the suit filed by the Hutchinson family, contesting the will of the widow of James Bailey, the famous show man, who died in New York city last week. Tompkins in supreme court at White Plains, N. Y. The proceeding opened last Tuesday with the selection of a jury and adjournment for the week ended yesterday afternoon. Next Monday the case will be resumed with the Hutchinson witnesses still testifying. Probably all of next week will be consumed in hearing the testimony of each witness. Briefly stated, James A. Bailey left his millions to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Louise Bailey, who died in Hope Sound, Fla., March 11, 1912. Mr. Bailey had died April 11, 1905, and subsequently Joseph T. Bailey (a brother of Mrs. Bailey) had assisted her in administering the estate and served as trustee in operating the Bailey circus interests until they were eventually disposed of to the Barnum & Bailey show to King and others and the Buffalo Bill Wild West show to C. C. Coffey and Major Little. Mr. McCadden was with his sister when she died, and the suit to break the will is based on the assumption of undue influence. Under the will, Joseph T. Bailey and Theodore D. McCadden (brothers of Mrs. Bailey), Dr. Harper (who married a sister of Mrs. Bailey), and their son, Joseph D. Harper, were chief beneficiaries. Mrs. Anna Isabelle Hutchinson, of this city, is herself and sons, Fred and Charles, brought suit to break Mrs. Bailey's will. They were remembered in the document and proposed distribution of the estate, but they claim to satisfy their ideas of what was equitable and proper under the circumstances. Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Bailey were sisters, making the Hutchinsons managers of the Sells-Florio shows for Harry Tammen. It is believed that the McCaddens will offer the promise of undue influence with the testimony attempting to show that the Hutchinsons were not in favor with Mr. Bailey and his estate. Witnesses for the contestants heard up to the time the court adjourned yesterday afternoon closed a structure with a view of establishing the Hutchinsons' friendly standing with the Baileys, and to show that not in favor with Mr. Bailey during the latter years of his life, and that Mrs. Hutchinson and her sister (Mrs. Bailey) were on the friendliest of terms. For the Hutchinsons, testimony had been given up to Friday afternoon by Charles and Fred Hutchinson, Mrs. Isabelle Hutchinson (niece), Louise E. Cooke, "Tody" Hamilton, F. B. Hatch, George Arlington, John McLaughlin, Ed. Schaffer, Charles Mercer, Joseph Mayer (the circus program publisher), John M. Burke (nephew of circus press agents), all of whom had either been in the employ of the late James

Bailey or were closely associated with him in a business way or by relationship. Mrs. McGinnis, a sister-in-law of Mr. Bailey, was also a witness, her husband being a brother of Mrs. Bailey, whose family name was McGinnis. Starting Monday noon there will be more witnesses for the Hutchinsons, and when their case is completed it is presumed that the McCadden faction will call an extensive list of witnesses to shed light (from the angle of defense) upon the business and family relations of the Baileys, Hutchinsons and McCaddens. The jury has been drawn from a regular panel of farmers and Westchester county, who know nothing of circus business and who are expected to render their verdict in accordance with the evidence adduced. Visitors to the court during the past week say the jury is an intelligent body of men and representative of the jury system in a substantial rural community. For the contestants, John T. Bottom of Denver, assisted by Arthur M. Johnson of Mount Vernon, are appearing; the McCaddens are represented in court by the New York firm of Holmes, Rogers & Carpenter. Under Mrs. Bailey's will Mrs. Hutchinson is understood to receive an annual income of $10,000, and the nephews are not individually provided for in any manner.

OBITUARY

Peter Goodman.
Peter Goodman died at Reedsburg yesterday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock at the age of 77 years. He leaves four children, Michael, Patrick, Mrs. F. F. Andrews of this city, and Mrs. John Plun of Elgin, Ill. The funeral will be held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. F. Andrews, 257 North High street, Monday morning at 9:30 and from St. Patrick's church at 10:00 o'clock.

John Hovland.
Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of John Hovland of Kansas City, Kansas. The deceased was born in Norway in 1834, and came to this country at the age of four years. He spent the early part of his life in this city. At the age of twenty he was married to Miss Julia Croft of this city, with whom he lived for many years. He was the father of two children, leaving one son, Bert. He then moved to Topeka, Kansas, and after several years married Miss Stella Dively of that city, later moving to Kansas City where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a member of the Santa Fe railroad since leaving this city. He leaves to mourn a wife, one daughter, Myrtle, and two sons, Harvey and Howard. His mother, Mrs. C. Hovland, and two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Duthill and Mrs. A. Wolcott, and five brothers survive. Announcement of the funeral will be given later.

Harrison J. Smith.
Harrison J. Smith passed to the world beyond Saturday morning at 4 o'clock, February 21, 1914, at his home 451 Logan street, after a short illness, pneumonia being the cause of his death.
He was born September 2, 1852, in Vanango Co., near Oil City, Pa., being 61 years of age at the time of his death. He came west with his parents in 1867, living on his father's farm near Evansville, Wis., until his marriage to Ella E. Warner in 1882. He was engaged in farming until he came to Janesville 17 years ago. He was an honest, upright Christian man, a member of the First Congregational church of this city, and a kind, loving and indulgent husband and father. He is survived by his wife and three children: Maurice W. Smith, Mrs. Ethel Livingston and Miss Marion Smith, all living at home; also three brothers, William and Peter Smith of Evansville and Hiram Smith of Beloit; four sisters: Mrs. Hannah Baidan, Miss Lydia Smith and Mrs. Maxilla Lemmihirt of Beloit and Mrs. Elizabeth Gilford of Janesville.
The funeral services will be held from the home Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock conducted by the Rev. Jos. Chalmers Hazen of the Baptist church. Interment at Oak Hill.

NO MORE COLDS SINCE TAKING PERUNA

No one can fully appreciate the joy of life who is subject to colds. To be free from colds is a blessing which comparatively few people enjoy.

Peruna is an old and tried remedy for those who are subject to colds. It regulates the bowels and tones up the whole nervous system.

THE COLD TOWEL BATH, as described on page three of the new "His of Life," should be used in every home. Sent free. Peruna used with the cold towel bath protects against cold.

If you prefer to take Peruna in tablet form you can now procure them by writing to the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

A SAFE INVESTMENT

Municipal Bonds have long been regarded as the safest form of investment known. The interest and principal are payable through direct taxation, and the taxes are generally sanctioned by popular vote. Tax levies are irrevocable. Furthermore, under the provisions of the new Federal Income Tax Law municipal bonds are exempt from taxation and no certificate of ownership is required when bond or coupons are deposited at bank for collection.

Their selection has been made with SECURITY as the first consideration, and the legality of issuance has been approved by municipal bond attorneys who are experts in their line. We, therefore, have no hesitation in recommending them for investment by the most careful and exacting purchasers.

We take pleasure in presenting the following issues which we offer subject to prior sale:

WEATHER FORECAST.

Fair and warmer Saturday and Sunday.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

It was one of those rainy Saturday mornings which sometimes make New York City feel that even pay-day is scarcely worth living through. In one of the biggest downtown smoke-shops the cash register accompanied the steady downpour outside with a mournful obligato as one dripping customer after another was served.

"Rotten weather we're having," said the clerk as he served the first customer. His tone was without inflection, stating a self-evident fact a bit cheerily, perhaps, but conveying the impression that he, for one, believed that the rain would last through the winter.

"Yep," said the customer, shortly, and went out.

"Rotten weather we're having," said the clerk as he slipped a perfect to Customer No. 2.

"Es-amp-h, growled Customer No. 2, out of the depths of his fur coat. He hurried away, but just in time to hear the clerk's greeting to the next customer.

"Rotten weather we're having."

"Yes, indeed, it is," said this customer, a mild-mannered little man who called for cheroots, so that you could see he had agreed with everything his wife said.

"Twenty-five out of fifty, thank you. Rotten weather we're having," said the clerk to Customer No. 4.

Customer No. 4 put up his umbrella and went out without a word.

"Rotten weather we're having," said the clerk to the next customer.

"It'll be snow tomorrow," said this pessimist, biting the tip of his cigar savagely.

"Yes, sir. A new pipe?"—and as the clerk met the sixth corner he could not suppress the familiar "Rotten weather we're having."

"Say," said Customer No. 6, "I've heard that say-head remark all morning. I feel when I came in here that I would get it again. I don't see anything poor about this weather. To me is the balm of Gilead. Each drop downward precipitated by Jupiter Pluvius brings new life to my veins. I could go to Palm Beach for snow and desert myself in the sun-kissed surf, but I won't. I'd rather stay here and see it rain. I've got a big umbrella factory in Hoboken."—Exchange.

The moral in this little story is not very difficult to trace, for what is one man's meat, is another man's poison, but the most of us are not in the umbrella business, and so feel perfectly free to kick about the weather when it don't suit us.

The man behind the cigar counter that rainy morning had a limited vocabulary and a mind and disposition to correspond. You may have noticed that this fruitful topic never makes a very heavy draught on gray matter for the weather man never talks back, and a one-sided discussion never produces brain-fag.

It is so much easier to criticize than to commend that the world is always long on critics, while never troubled with an overstock of commendation. If our criticism was confined to the weather, it would be harmless, but unfortunately it covers a wider range and takes in about everything in sight.

We criticized the Standard Oil Company so long and so vigorously, not because we had a grievance, but because it was the popular thing to do, until finally the government, disturbed by the way of regulation, and were satisfied, while the great corporation continued to do business at the old stand.

We howled ourselves hoarse over the tariff in the belief that we were being taxed to death by high prices. A democratic congress gave us what we were clamoring for, and we killed the American sugar industry and crippled half a dozen others, to find that the cost of living still maintains the high level, and is likely to for some time to come.

The fact is slowly dawning upon us that there are some things that can't be regulated by law. Hogs at eight and fifty and beef at nine dollars on the hoof, never spell ten cent bacon or fifteen cent steak, and cows at from seventy-five to one hundred dollars, mean high priced dairy products, but these fancy prices also mean prosperity to the farmer, and when the farmer is prosperous, good times generally prevail.

As citizens of the State of Wisconsin, we complained a few years ago about the corrupt caucus system and the unholy conventions. We imagined that we were a machine governed and down trodden people, and when a Moses appeared to lead us out of the wilderness, we rejoiced with a great rejoicing.

Today we are the most care free people on earth. We have neither party nor individual responsibility, and are simply called on to pay the bills, without question. Our law makers are selected by the mob who lead us out of the regularity of auto-bidding with the regularity of automations.

Our property has become a football for the amusement of a board of patriots, and the work of confiscation is going on with great regularity. "Go out and get the mob" is the watchword, and a deluded people are just waking up to the fact that they have been made a cat's-paw for designing and long-headed politicians.

Without party or organization the tax payers of Wisconsin today are scattered units, all desiring relief from extravagance and misrule, yet not knowing which way to turn to secure it.

The meeting at Darlington the other day expressed the sentiment of the tax payers of the state, but with the choice existing, there is little hope of anything being done, by passing resolutions of condolence.

There is only one policy to adopt, and vigorously pursue, under present conditions, and that is to see to it that every assembly district in the state send men to the legislature who will represent, not La Follette and his brand of reform, but the people. This can be done without state organization, and it is of vastly more importance than the question of who shall be the next governor. The next state campaign should be non-partisan, because the issues are more important than politics.

The mill tax and the percentage basis, are a snare and a humbug. The people were told some years ago that the game wardens were self supporting because the game business paid their salaries, and Adams and his friend Haughen would like to have us believe that the commissioners cost the tax payers but little because the corporations pay the freight.

Adams is a product of the university, which is some excuse for him, but Haughen ought to have more sense. There was a time, and not so long ago, when the railroads paid the most of the state tax, but they don't come within eight million dollars of it this year.

Loyalty should govern in our attitude toward the church, which honors us by a place on its membership roll. And love should so predominate in the home which shelters us, that harmony should ever be the watchword.

The trouble with the weather is, that complaining never improves it, and that is just as true of depressing conditions which now exist in our state government, but the difference is, that the latter may be improved, and will be, when complaint ripens into united action.

A man is not a kicker who complains today about conditions which exist in Wisconsin, and it is idle for the governor and his emissaries to travel over the state attempting to explain the economy of an administration that don't know what the term means.

The farmers of Rock county are thoroughly acrossed and, the mass meeting to be held at the Court House next Saturday should produce good results, as it will if politics and parties are ignored, and the one issue of high taxes and extravagance discussed.

Wisconsin tax payers are giving the weather a rest just now because they have more important matters to consider, and they have neither the time nor patience to listen to defenders of a cause which has nothing to defend.

In the closer relations of life the city where we live, or the neighborhood of which we are a part, should be free from censure or criticism.

HOUSEKEEPERS Must be Watchful

For great efforts are being made in this vicinity to sell baking powders of inferior class, made from alum acids and lime phosphates, both undesirable to those who require high-grade cream of tartar baking powder to make clean and healthful food.

The official Government tests have shown Royal Baking Powder to be a pure, healthful, grape cream of tartar baking powder, of highest strength, and care should be taken to prevent the substitution of any other brand in its place.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price per pound, and is cheaper and better at its price than any other baking powder in the world.

Forty-Seven Cases On March Calendar

Three Criminal Cases and Seven Personal Injury Suits Prominent Among Circuit Court Jury Matters.

There will not be more than fifty cases on the March calendar for the circuit court for Rock county, according to the number of notices filed at the clerk of court's office today, the last day for filing. Of these jury cases to be tried three are criminal actions, state against Philip Louquidde, of Beloit, on the charge of mayhem, state against Anthony Richardson, a negro barber of Evansville, on the charge of selling liquor without a license, and the state against Albin Voigt, the charge being assault and battery.

Fifteen other jury cases include personal injury damage suits against railroad companies. The Rockford and Interurban company is defendant in five different cases brought by Thomas Walsh, Jr. of Beloit, C. C. Mathews, administrator, of Rockford; the Rev. W. A. Goebel, Lillian Bourgmeyer, and Kate Perkins, the last three all of Janesville. In the action brought by the last named three parties the Janesville Traction company and the city of Janesville are also defendants.

The March term opens on Monday, March 2, at which time the calendar will be called and the day calendar for the jury term will be made. The jury has been summoned for March 3rd at 10:00 o'clock in the morning. Judge Grimm completed the work of the mid-winter term of the circuit court for Green county on Friday and was in Janesville for a short time today on his way to his home at Jefferson. He will be at the court house next Tuesday, February 25, for a hundred or so of the criminal cases which are scheduled for that date. He will have no other court business here before the opening of the March term.

GIVEN HEAVY FINES FOR SETTING LINES

Chicago and Milwaukee Men Fined In Jefferson Court for Illegal Fishing at Lake Mills.

J. Stern of Milwaukee and T. P. Miller of Chicago were arrested by Game Warden William P. Mason for fishing through the ice at Lake Mills with set lines and were fined Thursday at the Jefferson court. The Milwaukee man was fined $10.00 and the Chicago man $15.00 for setting lines.

During the past three weeks there has been a great deal of fishing done at Lake Koshongong, and Madison Lake, through the ice, and the warden provides that each fisherman may have five lines, with one hook on a line and the setter must attend to them. This has been the first case where the warden has been called into this section. In Rock county there is no law protecting fish except black bass, the season for which closes on March first. MILITARY HEROISM IN PEACE.
The fame of Colonel George W. Goethals rests upon his undoubted success as that of any military man of modern times, notwithstanding the fact that his great victories were won in peace, battling not against a human foe, but against the everlasting hills.

The Panama Canal will ever stand as a monument to American skill, efficiency and endurance, but in another sense, it will be a monument to Goethals. So complete has been the command of this one man over the great undertaking that has united the world by dividing the land, that when he says that a book contains an accurate and dependable account of the construction of the canal, it is testimony that cannot lightly be set aside.

This is what Colonel Goethals has said of "The Panama Canal," by Frederic J. Haskin, the book now being distributed to readers of The Janesville Gazette by a special arrangement at bare cost. Don't fail to secure the coupon printed in another part of today's paper.

IMMIGRANTS GATHER AT CITY HALL SOON

All Nations of the World Will Be Represented at the Dramatic Club Social.

Immigrants from all parts of the globe will converge at the city hall next Friday evening to attend the immigrant social of the Janesville Dramatic Club. Of course they will not be real live immigrants, but just make believe ones. The idea is to get the members to rubbing elbows and to practice the art of make-up.

The committee in charge has planned some novel entertainment for that evening, which should make the evening doubly enjoyable.

Everyone is expected to impersonate some nationality and the Jap, Chinaman, Italian, German and many others will be present. The scene will be supposed to be laid in the station of a large steaming ship company just after the immigrants have arrived.

The committee in charge is composed of Miss Ella Jacobson, Miss Marjorie Mout, Miss Vesta Bradley, Andrew Gibbons, Harold Olson and others.

Following this a paper was read by Miss Theresa Baker on the "Return of Peter Grimm," which was both interesting and instructive.

The club has secured permission from the city librarian to post programs in the library, and henceforth they will be found on the current events—bulletin board at least one week in advance.

REMODELING STORE OF M'CUE AND BUSS

Present Site of Store Has Interesting History Being Owned By Several Druggists.

Interesting lights on the early history of the drug business, in Janesville are in the old books of the Empire Drug store, which is being remodeled. The original drug store in this city was established by a Mr. Edmunds just north of the site of the present store.

Shortly afterward, the Empire building was erected in 1848, and into this building, Edmunds moved his stock. He conducted a drug store until 1857 when he sold out to Holdrege and Kemp.

Mr. Holdrege and Kemp, after a few years they in turn sold out to Tallman and Collins who were the originators of court plaster. Tallman and Collins did a great deal of laboratory work and finally out-grew their quarters and moved into a new building on the corner of Cherry and Pleasant streets.

Here they manufactured court plaster and Florida white. Mr. Holdrege and Kemp, after a few years they in turn sold out to Tallman and Collins who were the originators of court plaster.

ROCK COUNTY RURAL CARRIERS TO MEET

Branch of State and National Association Will Convene February 23rd in Annual Meeting.

Next Monday afternoon, February 23rd, at two o'clock, in the carriers' rooms at the postoffice, will assemble all Rock county rural carriers who are members of the R. L. C. A. These letters stand for the Rural Letter Carriers' Association, which organization is both state and national. The convention is an annual one.

This new becoming organization has been approved by the post office department at Washington. More efficient service and better conditions for the rural carriers are the ideas to be carried out.

Election of officers for the ensuing year will be in order. Also, the organization will elect delegates to attend the state convention, which meets in Green Bay May 29th and 30th. The membership of the R. L. C. A. has increased over fifty per cent since last May, when the enrollment in Wisconsin was 616; at the present time the total reaches 1,200 more, are expected to become members by the first of next May.

In order to raise the Wisconsin membership up to where the members desire to have it, the Rock county boys are going to give the county having the largest percentage of increase in membership during the year a beautiful banner, made by Miss Caroline M. Palmer (sister of her mother), the blind daughter of Carrier H. A. Palmer, present secretary of the Rock county association. This banner is to be presented at the state convention at Green Bay to Washington, D. C. in August. The second prize is to be a fountain pen and will be presented by the Dodge county carriers.

Last spring there were seventeen carriers with 231 carriers, which were unorganized, and so the Parker Pen Company has offered a beautiful lucky curve fountain pen as a prize to the county organizing with the largest percentage of the carriers in the county. As many as eight counties have organized already this year, and it is expected that several more will get in line by next Monday.

William Mfg. Company of Peoria, Illinois, have offered as a prize to the state making the largest percentage of gain a mail wagon, and the Wisconsin boys are running strong after that.

Volers, Attention!

In my campaign for Municipal Judge at Janesville, I have met so many men who did not know that our present Judge was working under an entirely different law than any former judge.

I wish to call the attention of the voters of Rock County to this change, and show how it came about. The Commitment law was passed by the last Legislature and went into effect last May. Before the present Judge was appointed by the Governor, and HE IS THE FIRST JAMESVILLE JUDGE WHO HAS HAD A CHANCE TO USE IT, AND HE HAD NO CHOICE. HE WAS OBLIGED TO ENFORCE THE LAW ITSELF. Persons convicted of drunkenness either pay a fine, or go to jail; the large majority going to jail. Under the old law this meant simply sitting around, smoking and eating (three square meals a day, and a long jail sentence punished the prisoner's family far more than the prisoner himself under the new law. IT IS THE DUTY OF THE SHERIFF, to provide employment for the prisoner, and his earnings are paid by the sheriff to those dependent on the prisoner, and if he has no dependents, then to the county. If the sheriff cannot get work for the prisoner he is put at work on the county wood-pile and is paid a dollar per day by Rock County, his earnings going as above stated.

The Municipal Judge simply determines the amount of the fine or the length of the sentence, and has NOTHING TO DO WITH ENFORCING THE SENTENCE—that rests entirely with the sheriff.

This new law provides that the prisoner receives one-fourth time off for good behavior, so a twenty-day sentence inflicts only fifteen days' punishment.

This article will explain why prisoners are now made to work when formerly they sat around.

The Municipal Judge simply determines the amount of the fine or the length of the sentence, and has NOTHING TO DO WITH ENFORCING THE SENTENCE—that rests entirely with the sheriff.

This new law provides that the prisoner receives one-fourth time off for good behavior, so a twenty-day sentence inflicts only fifteen days' punishment.

This article will explain why prisoners are now made to work when formerly they sat around.

Olive Oil

Almost a staple today. We have an immense trade in olive oil, due to handling only the finest of the world produces. Rich in flavor, clear as crystal, and extremely palatable in consequence. Try this if you find ordinary oil hard to take—you will be surprised at the difference. We carry a complete stock in gallon, half gallon, quart, pint and half pint tins. All full measure and with a very convenient little spout to screw on if you prefer.

Ask for Crown of Aragon Olive Oil. $3.15 per gallon; smaller sizes in proportion.

MEXICAN AMBASSADOR FROM GREAT BRITAIN HAS DIFFICULT TASK

Charles Murray Marling Has Had Wide Experience in National Affairs and Will Tackle Mexican Problem.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Feb. 21.—Charles Murray Marling, the prospective British minister to Mexico, is not the sort of man that there is any doubt of. His diplomatic traditions are followed. It is considered that one term in Latin America is the usual service unless a man happens to have a special sphere, and such is not Mr. Marling's case. His liking has been the near east and it is no secret that he does not relish the idea of going to Mexico, but like all officials in the diplomatic service, he cannot very well decline a promotion to be minister when it is offered. If he finds troubles there in Mexico, he will not suffer from inexperience. For nearly 25 years he has served in the Balkans and Turkey. He is a careful diplomat and the foreign office feels safe in sending him to a post which he has not attended to very high office and is still a councillor of embassy at the age of 41 years, he has scored many successes.

Was Wide Experience.
A Cambridge graduate, he entered the diplomatic service as an attaché in 1888 and in the following year was sent to Athens, the first of his foreign assignments. Later in Constantinople, where most of his career has been spent, he acquired such a knowledge of the Turkish people and their language that the foreign office advanced him a special duty and gave him a round of duties at Rio Janeiro and at Paris, for a few years, as a sort of holiday.

When the Crean question became acute and the powers had to be called to prevent Crete from leaving the Ottoman empire, joining her for times with Greece, which was only accomplished after the recent war, Mr. Marling was sent to Athens in charge of affairs and when each power sent a representative to Crete, he went there as consul-general.

Settles State Trouble.
Still more delicate duties awaited him concerning the Anglo-Russian negotiations in regard to the spheres of influence in Persia. The British policy, as decided upon by Sir Edward Grey, did not meet with the approval of British diplomats. To give Russia a hold on northern Persia, instead of being that country with Afghanistan as buffer states between Russia, proper and India, a treaty was signed which gave Russia an open road to India, according to these officials. It was hard to find a diplomat who would go to Tehran. Mr. Marling was chosen for the post, the duties of which were neither easy nor pleasant. He had to deal with a Russian minister, who all Britishers in Persia and the nearby countries, Russia was getting the better of their country and who they believed under the cloak of the Anglo-Russian treaty was trying to get Russia to Tehran and eventually Russianize the whole of northern Persia. It was a delicate situation but Mr. Marling came out well. The Russian troops never got to the capital, the capital was smoothed for the British minister and Mr. Marling was rewarded with a special allowance for his knowledge of Persian, a promotion to a councillorship of embassy and made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Wish More Ambulances.
An increasing number of street accidents has caused the London municipal council to be swamped with demands that the antiquated ambulance service of the metropolis be improved. With the exception of the one square mile under the jurisdiction of the city of London, the English capital has no wheeled ambulances of any kind. At certain street corners throughout the various boroughs, stretchers are kept in boxes, and to which are in the possession of the nearest patrolman. In case of accident, the victim must wait until sufficient bearers can be secured to carry him to a hospital. When a hospital is within walking distance the police may consider a cab. These primitive methods, however, have involved the death of several victims who might have been saved if they could have been rushed to the hospital in a wheeled ambulance.

Give Up Cable Plan.
The dominion's royal commission, which is holding hearings on the proposition of a state owned Atlantic cable, has written into its report the testimony of experts who raise the question with the opinion held by Postmaster General Herbert Samuel that such an enterprise would not pay. These witnesses, who gave their evidence in Australia, New Zealand and London, point to the success of the state owned Pacific cable and argue that an Atlantic line would be just as successful and would give the British empire a route which would never be a foreign territory or come under for alien control.

The Pacific cable between Canada, Australia and New Zealand, completed in 1902 cost $10,000,000, which was supplied by the dominions named in conjunction with the imperial government. As the cost of the cable was paid off in 1920, the cable will then be able to rely solely upon its own rates and rates to Australia, which has already been reduced from $2.50 a word to $2, will probably be still further reduced.

Some of the witnesses declared that so long as the control of messages between Great Britain and Canada was in the hands of foreign companies, the fact constituted a serious menace to the prosperity and welfare of the British race. It was estimated that the cost of a cable to link up the British empire would be $5,000,000 and that the working expenses, including renewal fund, would be just under $100,000 against which there would be receipts of over $700,000. It was feared that a sinking fund for repayment in fifty years of a $5,000,000 capital and interest would be a balance of $200,000, leaving a substantial balance.

Pension Disputed Woman.
A regular bargain is being struck by some local governments in England for the prevention of the spread of disease. The Manchester city council has just agreed to grant a pension to a woman carrier of enteric germs in return for which she has given her promise to give up the knowledge of her house. According to reports of physicians attached to the local government board, the lady was responsible for an epidemic of enteric fever among "policemen" and it was decided to buy her off with a weekly pension. A more serious case is reported from the West Riding of Yorkshire where a woman employed a housekeeper at various farms is declared to be the source of outbreaks of enteric fever, six of which have proved fatal. For three years after her discharge from the hospital where she was treated for the fever she lived with her parents and no cases of infection were traced to her. Then she took up work as a temporary nurse in the hospital and these fever cases followed her from farm to farm. The local government board inspectors ordered her to return to the home of her parents and the epidemic in the country ceased. The woman will be paid by the local government to remain at home.

In the British army a new regulation provides that a known carrier of enteric germs may be discharged if his condition refuses to respond to treatment and he is allowed a pension on the grounds that the fact that he is a carrier to be disclosed in his discharge papers.

Epidemic of Mumps.
An epidemic of mumps has become so acute in London that lively business is being done insuring business men against the disease. Mumps is not on the list of notifiable contagious diseases and the result has been that during the three days of cold damp weather the epidemic has gone like wildfire through the office district of the city.

One physician has written to the public health authorities against the levity with which the outbreak has been treated by the press. He asserts that the only funny things about the disease is its name and he concludes that since there are no specific signs that mumps once acquired strong preventive measures should be taken.

Revalue Silver.
The colleges of Oxford have been having their silver revalued. No estimate of the total valuation has been given, but it must run into many thousands of dollars. One or two colleges are said to have silver to the value of $100,000. Practically all this was given by old members of the colleges, it being for many years the regular custom for men to give a benefaction of plate when they graduated. Many of the treasures are of great value, having been in the possession of the colleges from the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.

GREEK PLAYS GIVEN ON OPEN AIR STAGE

Nature Makes Theatre at Fiesole a Perfect Setting for Ancient Greek Tragedies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, Feb. 21.—The success of the Greek tragedies given in the open air theater at Fiesole, near Florence, and their repetition in Rome at the stadium has led to the still more ambitious project of giving Greek Helene representations at the Greek theater at Syracuse, more than 2,400 years old.

Professor Ettore Ramagnani, who has spent his life translating the Greek tragedies into Italian, has been entrusted with a new translation for the occasion of Agamemnon, the first part of Aeschylus's trilogy, and the staging of it. The costumes are all to be taken from the figures on Greek vases of the time, and which actually represent the characters in the tragedy.

As for the scenery, little or nothing will have to be done to have the complete illusion of the city of Mycenae, the theater of Syracuse was the largest, after those of Miletus and Megalopolis, known to the ancient Greeks and was erected some time in the fifth century, B. C. It was hewn out of the solid rock and is nearly semi-circular in form, forty-six of the original sixty-one tiers of seats still being in existence. Some of the tiers were divided into compartments, the Greek inscriptions showing the names of their owners being still legible, and as many of them were feminine, this is indirect evidence that at Syracuse, at least, the theater was frequented by women, although it is denied by most historians.

Nature has always combined to render this theater a thing of beauty. All about are orange and lemon groves with their old and yellow fruits, above the Mount Tomentinos, circled by the blue Ionian Sea, while to the south opens the Temple of Jove. Amid such surroundings the lovers of Greek art and literature will welcome the return of Aeschylus to the city of his adoption this spring.

SPANISH ROYALTY ATTEND SPICED VAUDEVILLE SHOW; SMOKE MANY CIGARETTES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Feb. 21.—The Infante Eulalia, aunt of King Alfonso of Spain is defying the conventionalities which usually surround the presence of women of royalty in Paris. The Infanta recently learned from a member of her suite that a highly spiced Parisian vaudeville entertainment included an oporetta, the scene of which was laid in Spain and Biarritz, a resort which she frequented often. She immediately engaged three stage boxes for that evening and with a party of friends enjoyed herself to the utmost, as did the audience, which quickly recognized the royal guest and derived great amusement from the fact that the king's aunt smoked throughout the performance, seated conspicuously in the front of one of the boxes. She lighted cigarette after cigarette, laughed heartily and commanded loudly each phase of the production. In the last act, one of the most popular Parisian comedians, dressed in the familiar captain general's uniform and with feathers made up to resemble those of King Alfonso, appeared in a box directly opposite the Infanta. The likeness of her nephew was so excellent that the king's aunt could hardly control her laughter.

LARGE INCREASE NOTED IN WOMAN'S ATTENDANCE AT GERMAN UNIVERSITIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, Feb. 21.—The number of women students at German universities has been nearly quadrupled during the past six years, according to figures just announced. In the winter of 1908, when the doors of the German universities were first fully thrown open to women, there were 1,108 students enrolled; today there are 3,836. Women taking regular courses and as many more who are attending lectures. More than 6 per cent of the total number of students at the German universities are women. More than half of all the women are studying philosophy, languages and history; somewhat more than one-half are studying medicine, and more than one-fifth natural science. Nearly 400 of the women students are foreigners. Russia sends the largest number, and America the next. The women have for three years been going more to the non-Prussian universities. Leipzig and Munich, especially, have had large gains, and the smaller institutions like Jena, Wuerzburg and Freiburg have also made relatively large gains.

PROGRESSIVE SPIRIT SHOWN BY DANES IN EDUCATIONAL LINES

Complete Plans for Building to be Erected at the San Francisco, Iceland Waterfall.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Copenhagen, Denmark, Feb. 21.—Promotion to a steamer in the American service has been promised to Mrs. von Bauditz, Denmark's only woman sea captain who is now commanding a vessel running between Russia and England.

Mrs. von Bauditz, who is the wife of a physician, who for a long time interested in yachting as a sport and after passing an examination for a master's license she took up the sea as a profession. So adept did she prove herself that a local shipping company soon gave her command of one of its largest steamers. Captain von Bauditz wears a natty uniform with square cut coat and skirt of the same material. She is the first female master in the world.

Study Danish Dances.
Several American teachers are here studying the old Danish folk dances with the idea of substituting them for gymnastics in girls' schools in America. In this city a big society has been formed for the preservation and promotion of Danish national dances. The movement was so widespread that it attracted the attention of Americans visiting here and resulted in the visit of the American teachers who express themselves as delighted with the quaint dances. The teachers complain that gymnastics become very tiresome and boring to the girls, and they believe that the dances will counter all the benefits of the gymnastics and at the same time be a great source of pleasure to the students.

Panama Building Plans.
Anton Rosen, a local architect, has finished plans for the building which will be erected at the San Francisco Exposition from a fund collected by Danish Americans. The building will be modeled on the famous castle of Hamlet's town, Elsinore, and, like its historical prototype, will be situated on the sea. The building will not be used to house exhibits, but will be placed in another structure erected by the Danish government, but will be used as a headquarters for Danish Americans and their friends, visiting the exposition. The structure will contain a big recital hall, reception rooms and offices. For the official Danish exhibition a splendid site has been procured, and it is planned to make the exhibit stand out typical of the very best of Danish art and industry.

To Erect Versailles.
Dr. Carl Jacobsen, Denmark's great art patron, just before his death, created a Danish Versailles, and the publication of the plan has led to the determination to carry out his ideas as a memorial of his services to the nation. The large sum to make this plan a success will be available from the Carlsberg fund, which was instituted by Jacobsen and to which he donated many millions for the encouragement and promotion of art in Denmark. The Versailles, as planned by Dr. Jacobsen, will be erected in Frederiksberg, where the beautiful castle of that name with its expensive gallery of art and national historical treasures is already located. In connection with the castle all of the skill of the landscape artist and sculptor will be called upon to create a Versailles Park.

To Harness Falls.
An English company is planning to harness Dettifoss, one of the largest water falls in Iceland with the plan of turning its estimated 410,000 horse power into an agency to extract fertilizer from the atmosphere. The engineers estimate that the falls will develop more power than the works at Hardangerfjord and Odda in Norway. The engineers say they will have no difficulty in producing capacious saltwater fertilizer from the air. The electric power will be transmitted to a nearby port, where splendid shipping facilities exist, and where factories for the production of the fertilizer will be built.

DISCOVER SMUGGLING MEANS OF NOBILITY

American Is First to Climb Jungfrau on Skies, Establishing Record—Titled People Caught Smuggling.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Geneva, Feb. 21.—Development of the fine art of smuggling to a new plane is charged in the case of titled personages detained at Prague pending an inquiry into the alleged operations. It is charged that the Count and Countess Gunther von Konigsberg, who are of ancient German family, and who have their headquarters in Zurich, where the manufacture of mackinac is permitted, have been making frequent trips across the German and Austrian frontiers accompanied by many servants in livery and baggage containing saccharine. Customs officials, generally do not venture to examine all the baggage of the nobility. However, at Prague recently, the party encountered inspectors who searched their effects and found evidence, which prompted an inquiry into the operations. It is said that profits from the smuggling of saccharine into Germany and Austria would amount to from 100 to 400 per cent.

Mountain Ski Trip.
A New York man, H. Wirth, has the honor of being the first American to climb the Jungfrau on skis, and incidentally he established a record for guide climbing. Accompanied by Herr Bueckley of St. Gall and Annetter, the well known guide of Grindelwald, the New Yorker made the ascent of the Jungfrau, 13,670 feet; also ascended the Munch, 13,465 feet, and returned to Grindelwald, his starting point, after crossing the Föhn glacier and Eljmer glacier, all in forty-eight hours. One night was spent in an Alpine hut on the Jungfrau. The weather was fine and the snow in good condition. A splendid view of the Alps was obtained, but the cold was so intense that one could stand still only a few moments.

Sweeping Landslide.
A remarkable avalanche recently occurred at Ann, an Alpine hamlet in the canton of St. Gall. A farmer and his family had just sat down to dinner at noon, when the avalanche fell from the neighboring heights, causing a great and violent displacement of air in the narrow valley. The windows from their hinges and broke doors, while the members of the household were actually blown out of the house through doorless passages to the garden, a considerable distance away. Curiously none was injured. A few minutes later the avalanche itself, arrived and wrecked the whole farm, the walls giving way under the onslaught of snow and the roof falling in.

OMISSION OF "OBEY" FAVORED BY CHURCH

English Bishops Foster Idea of Omitting Obedience from Marriage Ceremony.—Withdraw Motion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Feb. 21.—The omission of the word "obey" from the marriage service of the Church of England appeared to find considerable support today among the bishops attending the house of convocation of the province of Canterbury now in session in London.

A formal motion to omit the word, of which the bishop of Lincoln had given notice, was withdrawn however. The bishop gave as his reason that he thought he was unlikely to carry a large majority of the house in favor of the proposed alteration. The bishops of Winchester and Hereford spoke strongly for the insertion of similar undertakings by both husband and wife. They, however, felt there should be some reference to the leadership of the man in the home, as they said, it would be obviously inconvenient to have two heads of the family. The archbishop of Canterbury emphasized the opinion that Church of England had to face this proposed change and other questions of a far reaching character arising out of it. He believed, however, a better occasion than the present would be found at an early date for handling such great social problems.

WHEN your Uncle Sam took off his long-tailed coat at Panama and got to work he not only managed the main event but ran all the side shows, too.

Do you realize that besides digging the canal, Uncle Sam had to feed and house 50,000 men, many of them with their wives and children?

Do you know how he watched out for their health by day, and their fun by night?

How he provided hospitals, gave dances, organized clubs, built churches, furnished preachers?

How, in order to get the men to their work, he owned and ran a railroad?

How, in order to accommodate visitors, he became a hotel proprietor?

School teacher, health officer, barber, butcher, baseball magnate, and ice cream manufacturer, all in one—that's your Uncle Sam.

You will learn how official red tape was cut, and how your Canal was finished ahead of time.

You will read this 400-page book with fascinating interest. You will return to it as a standard work of reference again and again.

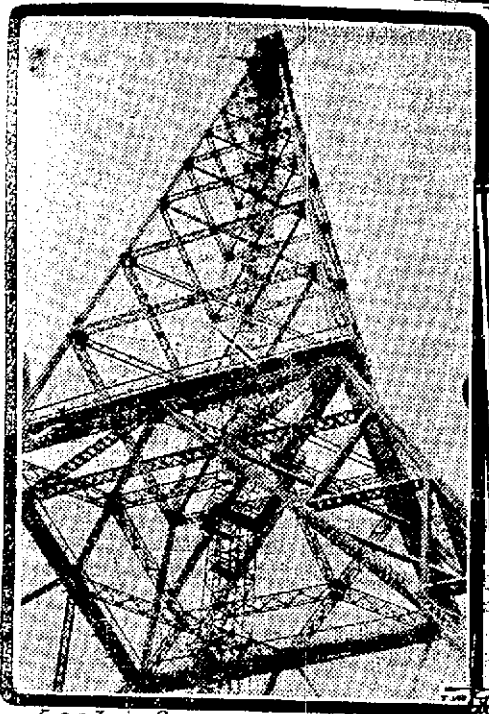

How this newspaper is distributing this authoritative book at cost price is explained by the coupon printed in another part of this issue.

The 5 Points of Authority in this Book

- ★ 1. All of the chapters in this book which pertain to the actual construction of the Canal were read and corrected by Col. George W. Goethals, Chairman and Chief Engineer of the Isthmian Canal Commission.
- ★ 2. All of the illustrations were made from photographs taken by Mr. Ernest Hallen, the official photographer of the Commission.
- ★ 3. The book contains the colored relief map of the Panama Canal Zone which was made under the direction of the National Geographic Society. It also contains the black-and-white official map of the Canal.
- ★ 4. The extensive index, which makes this book a standard work of ready reference, was prepared by Mr. G. Thomas Ritchie, of the Library of Congress.
- ★ 5. The final proofs were revised by Mr. Howard E. Sherman, of the Government Printing Office, to conform with the typographical style of the U. S. Government.

This book is by the author of "The American Government" which was read by millions of Americans, and still holds the record as the world's best seller among all works of its kind.

Storm Warnings by WIRELESS

Most Powerful Wireless Tower in the World

Predictions Sent Broadcast from the Most Powerful Radio Station in the World—A New Measure of Safety for Mariners.

SOME months ago France established the first of a series of what are known as wireless lighthouses. Now matter-of-fact Uncle Sam has gone the better, with the same purpose in view—namely, the transmission of signals to ships at sea. The American officials have devised and put into use an ingenious scheme of infinitely wider range and application and consequently of proportionately greater value than the French project.

Maybe it requires something of a stretch of imagination to identify the French stations as "wireless lighthouses" but that is what they are called nevertheless. The nickname is due to the circumstance that these new signaling stations on the French coast instead of sending forth beams of light to warn and guide mariners, discharge seaward electric or wireless waves which in effect answer the same purpose—that is, they indicate to a ship its exact position and warn it of danger.

Uncle Sam's arrangement is of greater scope. It makes use of his latest established wireless towers—the most powerful in the world—to send signals to ships far and wide. Not merely ships within thirty miles of shore, as is the case in the French system, but vessels almost anywhere in the North Atlantic Ocean—hundreds or maybe even thousands of miles from the sending station.

There is, however, one important difference between the French and the American systems, due to the somewhat different functions for which they have been instituted. The primary purpose of the French system being to warn ships of the dangers of the rocky coasts of Brittany and Normandy—it has been arranged that each wireless lighthouse shall send forth its proclamation every few seconds. Indeed the sending apparatus is automatic just as is the machinery which produces the revolving or flashing light in an ordinary lighthouse.

A Bulletin Each Morning.

The United States government, on the other hand, does not make use of the wireless in the present instance to warn vessels of lurking dangers as they approach our coasts. For this Uncle Sam depends, as in the past, upon buoys and beacons and bells and sirens. Rather is it the present plan to utilize the wings of the wireless to advise those afloat on the high seas of impending weather conditions, and particularly to give warning of storms.

The daily bulletins for the benefit of the nomads of the ocean are sent broadcast a few minutes after 10 o'clock in the morning, which is just about the time that "land lubbers" receive their forecast for the ensuing day. Two departments of the Government are co-operating in the issuance of these storm warnings. The Department of Agriculture prepares the bulletin, the U. S. Weather Bureau being a branch of that department, and the Navy Department attends to dispatching the messages through its wireless towers—naval radio stations they are called—located at Radio, Virginia, and at Key West, Florida. For the present this makes no special provision for shipping on the Pacific Coast but that will be attended to later and in all likelihood special arrangements will be made for supplying information as to the weather outlook to all ships passing through the Panama Canal.

Uncle Sam's open aeroplane of advice to all mariners deals particularly each day with wind conditions and barometric pressure and gives special warning of severe storms along the coast. The daily bulletin is in two parts. The first part gives in code letters and figures the actual weather conditions at 8 P. M. (75th Meridian time) at certain points—Sydney, Nanuet, Atlantic City, Easterns, Charleston, Key West, Pensacola and Bermuda. The same part of the bulletin contains a special forecast of the probable winds to be experienced one hundred miles or so off shore. In the second part of the bulletin are the storm warnings and forecasts which in each instance cover a period of forty-eight hours from the time of issue. At the end of the forecast there is a statement of the location and movement of any barometric depressions that may be likely to affect the winds over the ocean.

A Well-equipped Institution.

There is not in all the world an institution better equipped to disseminate information than the marvelous new wireless station at Radio. It is indeed the most powerful wireless station in the world and is capable of transmitting messages across the ocean and beyond. To say that this new giant among wireless plants is located at Radio, Virginia, probably conveys nothing to the average reader. But his bump of locality will become effective if it be explained that Radio is located on the hills of Virginia, just opposite the city of Washington, D. C.—for the newspapers have made frequent mention of the government's new record-breaking wireless plant "at Washington." In reality Radio adjoins Fort Myer, the military post which serves as a "show place" for the national capital and which was the scene, it will be remembered, of the original flights of the first Wright aeroplane built for the U. S. Government.

The Radio wireless station, which stood Uncle Sam, the tidy sum of $200,000, is enabled to transmit its signals great distances—3,000 miles and more—because of the extreme height of the towers or aerials. There are three steel towers arranged in the form of a triangle. At the apex of the triangle is a tower more than 600 feet high, or considerably higher than the Washington National Monument, at the base of the triangle are two towers each 450 feet in height. The antennae are suspended between the tallest tower and the other two. This takes full advantage of the height of the tallest tower and affords the greatest possible spread for the wires.

Of course a large proportion of the mariners who receive Uncle Sam's new "intelligence service" on the weather outlook have to content themselves with a one-sided conversation so to speak. That is they cannot answer back or ask any questions. The explanation lies in the circumstance that whereas every ocean-going vessel that carries passengers is now equipped with a wireless outfit these outfits are, in many instances, of comparatively limited power. They can receive messages from any distance but perhaps they have not power to transmit messages more than a few hundred miles. Thus many a ship in mid-Atlantic which will receive the storm warnings cannot acknowledge receipt of the message. However, it is seldom that there would be any occasion for further interchanges on the subject of the weather. For the most part all purposes will be served if a ship's captain simply instructs his wireless operator to be on the lookout at 10 o'clock each morning for the daily prophecy.

In Behalf of Safety at Sea.

This whole governmental plan of daily storm warnings is another important move in behalf of greater safety of life and property at sea. All the leading nations are now co-operating to bring about a mutual understanding that will compel all wireless operators to observe certain rules. For instance, it is demanded that a wireless operator be constantly on duty on all ocean-going passenger steamers and one rule that is being advocated is that all long distance messages shall be interrupted at the end of every quarter of an hour so that the operators may listen for distress signals. It is expected that the next move will be to arrange for a general suspension of wireless activity at 10 o'clock each morning in order that all ships may obtain the storm report sent out by the U. S. Government.

The Weather Bureau's Reporting System.

This country is far ahead of every other in its weather reporting system just as it is now taking the lead in extending its forecast service to ocean voyagers as well as to dwellers on land. Upward of two million dollars a year is being expended in this work and the prediction which now goes out each day to the men who go down to the sea in ships is formulated after the experts have pondered over the reports that have come in from fully 3,500 land stations and more than half that number of ocean vessels. Close observation has proven to our weather sharps that fully four-fifths of our storms follow beaten paths so that when a disturbance is reported moving in a certain direction the weather wizards will prove true prophets eight times out of ten if they transmit positive and emphatic warnings to the vessels in the track of the storm.

As a matter of fact the U. S. Weather Bureau has attained its maximum efficiency in forecasting storms and there has been scarcely a single storm or hurricane in recent years which was not forecasted to the maritime interests from half a day to a day in advance of its arrival. The trouble with the system, until the inauguration of the present extension of the plan, has not been with the forecasts but with the communicating of these warnings to the persons most affected. The forecasts have been all very well for the ships in harbors or so close in shore that the men aboard could discern flag signals and on occasion hundreds of ships have remained in port because of warnings of an impending hurricane. But this service has been of little value to the ships out of sight of land in the open sea.

Now, thanks to the daily warnings by wireless, all this is changed. The vessel master out on the broad Atlantic receives his warnings of sudden and destructive changes of temperature, winds of high velocity or other of nature's tantrums just as promptly as if his craft were tied up at a dock. He may get such a peep into the future as long as 24 or even 36 hours in advance of the rising of wind and wave. That means, of course, that if he is anywhere along the coast he can seek a harbor of safety and if he is too far at sea to thus run for shelter the warning should be none the less welcome, for it enables the forehanded vesselmaster to get everything aboard in the best possible shape to weather the storm. All our local weather stations on America's far-flung coast line and all the governmental wireless stations, not forgetting those in Alaska, continue to co-operate each in its narrow range—in keeping our maritime interests advised as to weather prospects.

FEMININE POPULATION WANTED IN AUSTRALIA FOR HOUSE SERVANTS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Feb. 21.—The long cherished theory that the world's surplus married off if it could be persuaded to migrate to the Antipodes is not borne out in a report of the Dominion Royal Commission upon the demand for women in Australia. Women are wanted badly in the great island continent, but not so much for marriage as for domestic servants.
So great is the demand, according to the report, that many of the girls sailing from England have been engaged by wireless as cooks and servants in Australian households before their steamer reached port. In some cases men have been so hard up for cooks that they have gone out in tugs to meet incoming employment. The first few days following the landing of the immigrants resembles an old hiring fair. The employers besiege the labor bureau in certain to have secured a situation at wages more than double the sum which she could command in England.
The commission learned of complaints that the scarcity of servants in Australia involves such a burden on housewives that it was affecting seriously their health and even acting as a check upon the much desired increase of the population.

Monarchs Not Over Cleanly.

King Charles II. of England dressed shabbily and Louis XIV. of France disliked to wash, a little cold cream applied with a handkerchief being the chief tribute he paid to cleanliness. In St. Simon's detailed account of the king's day, from the passing of his periwig through the closed bed curtains in the morning to the ceremonial placing of the night shirt over his shoulders when he retired, there is no mention of any ablutions.

ONLY "HIGHER-UP" IN FUEL CASE NOW

James B. Smith.

Only one "higher-up" of the Western Fuel Company is now being tried in the federal court at San Francisco. Originally a half dozen were in the net. President John L. Howard of the company died two weeks ago and the case against him was dropped. Then followed the dismissal of the indictments against Treasurer Joseph L. Schmidt and Directors Sidney V. Smith and Robert Bruce. The one official whom the government has to convict is Vice President and General Manager James B. Smith. The Fuel Company men were charged with having criminally conspired to cheat the government by underweighing datable imports of coal and overweighing fuel sold both for government use and to private consumers.

JANESVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE

The School For You

ONE HUNDRED AND ONE REASONS WHY

Stenotype Department

- 1 You will be taught to use the greatest invention of the twentieth century—the Stenotype.
- 2 The Stenotype is the fastest and most accurate method of recording speech.
- 3 Your notes are in plain English letters and are legible to any other Stenotype student.
- 4 Stenotype graduates command 25% to 40% higher salaries than shorthand writers.
- 5 Stenotypy is easy to learn and the student is always interested.
- 6 Over 11,000 students are succeeding in business offices today.
- 7 The demand for Stenotypists is increasing faster than the supply.
- 8 Stenotypy is taught only in schools that are selected by the Stenotype Company—schools that have a representation for high class work.

Shorthand Department

- 9 You will be taught the EASY system of shorthand. Spencerian Shorthand can be mastered with one-twentieth the study required for Pitman or Gregg.
- 10 You will be taught the RAPID SYSTEM of shorthand. Spencerian Shorthand outlines are from TWENTY to FORTY per cent shorter than those of any other system.
- 11 You will learn a LEGIBLE system of shorthand. You can correspond with other writers of Spencerian Shorthand. This is impossible with any other system.
- 12 You will master a system of shorthand with a NATIONAL REPUTATION. Spencerian Shorthand is taught by the most progressive business, public and parochial schools in every section.
- 13 You will acquire a system of Quick Writing that is endorsed by THOUSANDS of the most influential business men in every state and territory.
- 14 You will learn a shorthand that is employed by tens of thousands of the world's most EXPERT stenographers in every field of business and every line of industry.
- 15 You will be taught under the personal supervision of a graduate of the author of the

Spencerian Shorthand

- 16 You will be able to write ANY word the tongue can utter without a PEN-LIFT. You can't do this with any other shorthand.
- 17 You'll begin taking DICTATION the first day. You don't have to learn and THEN UNLEARN page after page in SPENCERIAN Shorthand.
- 18 SIX RULES, 9 LESSONS, 64 WORD SIGNS—THAT'S ALL. Other systems have SCORES of rules, HUNDREDS of exceptions and THOUSANDS of arbitrary word signs and abbreviations.

Typewriting Department

- 19 You'll learn the PIANO METHOD—the EXPERT WAY.
- 20 You'll be taught the use of the machine, its care and its value, the Modern Way

- 21 Modern Touch Typewriting is taught by the BIGGEST and BEST schools of America.
- 22 MODERN will show you the LATEST and MOST IMPROVED forms in business LETTER WRITING.
- 23 MODERN will teach you to TABULATE the MOST difficult LEGAL AND RAILROAD FORMS.
- 24 You will have AMPLE TIME to MASTER the machine. The simplicity of the STENOGRAPHY or SPENCERIAN SHORTHAND makes this possible.
- 25 We will secure you a TYPEWRITER for HOME USE.
- 26 You will be taught the use of standard makes of TYPEWRITERS.

English Department

- 27 You'll learn to SPELL BUSINESS WORDS and TERMS.
- 28 You'll learn to RECOGNIZE words "from their faces."
- 29 You'll learn to write a GOOD BUSINESS LETTER.
- 30 You'll learn to PUNCTUATE properly.
- 31 You'll be taught how to PARAGRAPH correctly.
- 32 You'll be taught to USE GOOD ENGLISH.
- 33 You'll learn ALL THIS in terms so simple that a child can MASTER it, yet so COMPREHENSIVE that every requirement of good English is satisfied.
- 34 You'll be taught PENMANSHIP under a penmanship EXPERT.
- 35 Plain, business DOLLAR-MAKING handwriting is taught.
- 36 You can finish up in ORNAMENTAL penmanship if you desire.

Bookkeeping Department

- 37 You'll "LEARN TO DO BY DOING."
- 38 You WON'T be required to WADE through page after page of dry, theoretical text.

- 39 You'll write real checks, draw real drafts, make real notes, and record real transactions. You'll be taught to keep books as they are kept TODAY. That's WHY we term our system.

Rowe's Bookkeeping and Accounting—The Twentieth Century Method

- 40 Rowe's will teach you MERCHANDISE, WHOLESALE, RAILROAD, CORPORATION, COST and BANK BOOKKEEPING.
- 41 You'll be TAUGHT to SAVE TIME THROUGH the use of MULTICOLUMNS.
- 42 You'll be taught to DEVISE your OWN SYSTEMS, applicable to any particular BUSINESS.
- 43 You'll learn ACCOUNTING as well as BOOKKEEPING.
- 44 When you finish, you won't be an AUTOMATON—you'll be a LIVING, THINKING, USEFUL EXPERT ACCOUNTANT.
- 45 You'll be taught COMMERCIAL LAW.
- 46 You'll learn ACCURACY in

Rapid Calculation

- 47 You will learn to READ NUMBERS just as you READ WORDS.
- 48 You will be taught to ADD, SUBTRACT, MULTIPLY and DIVIDE the LIGHTNING WAY.
- 49 ONLY THE QUICKEST WAYS of calculating INTEREST, COMMISSION, INSURANCE, LOSS and GAIN are TAUGHT.
- 50 You are not required to spend weeks and months on CUBE ROOT, GEOMETRICAL and HARMONICAL PROGRESSION and other equally UNUSUAL branches.
- 51 You will learn to PROVE instantly all BUSINESS PROBLEMS.
- 52 You will acquire the HABIT OF ACCURACY and the SPIRIT OF CONFIDENCE.

General

- 53 Janesville Business College Graduates are the BEST PAID stenographers, bookkeepers and office managers in the North West.
- 54 A diploma from US is recognized by business men everywhere as a PASSPORT to success.
- 55 At the Janesville Business College you will become ASSOCIATED with the COMING LEADERS of Janesville Business Activity.
- 56 As a graduate you will be classed among the EXPERT office workers of Wisconsin.
- 57 You will not only be taught BOOKKEEPING and STENOGRAPHY or SHORTHAND, but you will acquire GENUINE BUSINESS HABITS, such as RELIABILITY, ENDURANCE, LOYALTY.
- 58 You will be backed by a school with a REPUTATION for PROGRESSIVENESS.
- 59 Your UP-TO-DATE and DOWN-TO-THE-MINUTE knowledge will class you as a L-I-V-E W-I-R-E in the community.

Tuition

- 60 Janesville Business College Tuition places Expert Training within the reach of all.
- 61 The rate of tuition is as low as is consistent with good business methods and modern equipment.
- 62 Fifteen dollars a month, $35.00 for three months, $70.00 for seven months, $120 for one year, for either the STENOGRAPHY or SHORTHAND or the COMMERCIAL COURSE. Why pay more for INFERIOR courses?
- 63 FIVE DOLLARS a month for NIGHT SCHOOL.
- 64 You can buy any period of time you wish. If our school is not what we claim for it, we want you to TELL US SO, the VERY FIRST DAY.
- 65 Instruction is INDIVIDUAL. Each student advances as rapidly as application, preparation and ability permit.
- 66 You WON'T be held in school after you're READY FOR THE POSITION. One well-placed graduate is worth a DOZEN HANGERS-ON.
- 67 You will be taught by MEN and WOMEN who have made a SUCCESS in the BUSINESS WORLD outside the CLASS-ROOM.
- 68 Your BOOKS will be REASONABLE in COST, LUXURIANT in CONTENT. There is no "Incidental Expense."
- 69 The Janesville Business College has Special Arrangement by which Out-of-Town students are placed in IDEAL, private homes in which the ENVIRONMENT is the BEST.
- 70 A letter from the Janesville Business College secures you REDUCED typewriter rental from ANY typewriter company.

- 71 No WORTHY student is ever turned away for LACK OF FUNDS. The mission of Janesville Business College is to help the boys and girls of Janesville and vicinity to help themselves.

Actual Business Training Department

- 81 You will learn BUSINESS METHOD by coming in ACTUAL CONTACT with SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS MEN.

An Introduction to the Business World

- 82 You won't have to ASK when you go out to accept an important position. You'll KNOW.
- 83 You will have gained SELF-CONFIDENCE, POISE and ABILITY that will COMMAND for you position, salary and influence.
- 84 You can live cheaper in Janesville than in any other city of the Northwest.
- 85 Salesmanship and Business Efficiency is made a part of every student's training—a course that teaches a student to know his own possibilities within himself and develop them.
- 86 The Faculty of the Janesville Business College are men and women who have had actual office experience combined with teaching experience. They are experts in their line.
- 87 In the matter of equipment, lighting, heating, ventilation and sanitary conveniences, the Janesville Business College is unsurpassed. Our rooms were especially built for us.

Free Employment Department

- 88 You SHOULD WORRY about the position! Our Free Employment Department assures you a position.
- 89 The DEMAND made upon us for our graduates is LARGER than we are able to supply, although we now have the BIGGEST ENROLLMENT in the history of our school.
- 90 Business men are insistent upon graduates "Just Like the Last One."
- 91 Because the "Last One" invariably "made good."
- 92 We keep in touch with ALL graduates, and are often able to put them in touch with SOMETHING BETTER.
- 93 The Free Employment Bureau has placed HUNDREDS of GRADUATES in the mercantile houses, banks and courts of the Northwest.
- 94 The President of the Janesville Business College is more interested in the success of the young people who enroll, than in the amount of money which they pay for tuition.
- 95 Every Graduate from the Full Commercial Course is placed in a good business position, or tuition is refunded.
- 96 Students from other schools are LISTING their names with us for employment.
- 97 The Janesville Business College is the only school in this section that has been awarded membership in the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools, and the Wisconsin Commercial Educators' Association.
- 98 Individual attention is given each student and thus advancement is determined by the student's own ability and application.
- 99 Our students and graduates recommend our courses of instruction.
- 100 Our courses prepare young people for business, not simply to be mere office machines.
- 101 JANESVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE IS THE LAST WORD IN BUSINESS TRAINING.

Classified Want Ad. Results

Last winter a man in a certain town was, without warning, laid off at the shop where he worked. He hunted for a week for work, finally landing a job (you could not call it a position) at much smaller salary than he had been getting.

That little paragraph says a great deal to the salaried men with families. It spells retrenchment. And retrenchment in the winter with the house to be heated, the children to be warmly clad, is oftentimes a difficult matter.

This man's wife was his partner as well as being his wife. She was willing to help, eager, but as they had two small babies what could she do?

However, where there is a will, a way is found. She went to town, bought a bolt of pretty light calico (by the bolt it was a cent cheaper a yard) and a perfectly plain pattern of a child's apron. She cut out six, finished them, keeping track of all materials used. Instead of hemming them she put finishing braid around the neck and arms. The bottom hem was simply basted.

Then she inserted an Ad in her home paper, that children's aprons could be had very reasonably at a store down town. She sold in one month sixty-five aprons and on each apron she cleared eleven cents.

Some of you may scoff at this. But she did this work besides her home work and the caring for her family. She did not work steadily at it either, as the pattern she used was simplicity itself and she could make six in one afternoon. Can you do as well?

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—Mrs. ORPHEA TURNER, 421 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MAKE WORK EASIER

Janesville People Are Pleased to Learn How It Has Been Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties

With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made work easier.

So thousands have gratefully testified.

They're for bad backs.

They're for weak kidneys.

Janesville people gratefully recommend Doan's.

S. E. Moore, carpenter, 615 Park Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I think the straining and stooping I have to do in my carpenter work is responsible for my kidneys getting out of order. I had pains through the small of my back. When I stooped over to nail a base board, I could hardly get up again. I used different medicines but wasn't benefited. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills. It was Doan's Kidney Pills that quickly stopped the pain in my back. My kidneys began to do their work as they should and I was able to straighten without suffering. I am glad to tell other kidney sufferers about Doan's Kidney Pills because I know just what this remedy will do."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Clearly the old merchant was not over-pleased with his daughter's choice, a conclusion permanently established by the alteration he made in his will a year or two after the marriage. True, he left the vast estate to his beloved daughter Sara, but he fastened a stout string to it, and with this string her hands were tied. It must have occurred to him that Chellis was a profligate in more ways than one, for he deliberately stipulated in his will that Sara was not to sell a foot of the ground until a period of twenty years had elapsed. A very polite way, it would seem, of making his investment safe in the face of considerable odds.

He lived long enough after the making of his will. I am happy to relate, to find that he had made no mistake. As he preceded his son-in-law into the great beyond by a scant three years, it readily may be seen that he wrought too well by far. Seventeen unnecessary years of proscriptive remained, and he had not intended them for Sara alone. He was not afraid of Sara, but for her.

When the will was read and the condition revealed, Chellis Wrاندall took it in perfect good humor. He had the grace to proclaim in the bosom of his father's family that the old gentleman was a father-in-law to be proud of. "A canny old boy," he had announced with his most engaging smile, quite free from rancor or resentment. Chellis was well acquainted with himself.

And so the acres were strapped together snugly and firmly, without so much as a town lot protruding.

So impressed was Chellis by the far-sightedness of his father-in-law that he forthwith sat him down and made a will of his own. He would not have it said that Sara's father did a whit better by her than he would do. He left everything he possessed to his wife, but put no string to it, blandly implying that all danger would be past when she came into possession. There was a sort of grim humor in the way he managed to present himself to view as the real and ready source of peril.

Sara and Hetty did not stay long in town. The newspapers announced the return of Chellis Wrاندall's widow and reporters sought her out for interviews. The old interest was revived and columns were printed about the murder at Burton's inn, with sharp editorial comments on the failure of the police to clear up the mystery.

"I shall ask Leslie down for the weekend," said Sara, the third day after their arrival in the country. The house was huge and lonely, and time hung rather heavily despite the glorious uplift of spring.

Hetty looked up quickly from her book. A look of dismay flickered in her eyes for an instant and then gave way to the calmness that had come to dwell in their depths of late. Her lips parted in the sudden impulse to cry out against the plan, but she checked the words. For a moment her dark, questioning eyes studied the face of her benefactress; then, as if nothing had been revealed to her, she allowed her gaze to drift pensively out toward the sunset sea.

They were sitting on the broad verandah overlooking the sound. The dusk of evening was beginning to steal over the earth. She laid her book aside.

"Will you telephone in to him after dinner, Hetty?" went on Sara, after a long period of silence.

Again Hetty started. This time a look of actual pain flashed in her eyes. "Would not a note by post be more certain to find him in the—" she began hurriedly.

"I dislike writing notes," said Sara calmly. "Of course, dear, if you feel that you'd rather not telephone him, I can—"

"I dare say I am finicky, Sara," apologized Hetty in quick contrition. "Of course he is your brother. I should remember—"

"My brother-in-law, dear," said Sara, a trifle too literally.

"He will come often to your house," went on Hetty rapidly. "I must make the best of it."

"He is your friend, Hetty. He admires you."

"I cannot see him through your eyes, Sara."

"But he is charming and agreeable, you'll admit," persisted the other.

"He is very kind, and he is devoted to you. I should like him for that."

"You have no cause for disliking him."

"I do not dislike him. I—I am—Oh, you always have been so thoughtful, so considerate, Sara, I can't understand your failing to see how hard it is for me to—to—well, to endure his open-hearted friendship."

Sara was silent for a moment. "You draw a pretty fine line, Hetty," she said gently.

Hetty flushed. "You mean that there is little to choose between wife and brother? That isn't quite fair. You know everything, he knows nothing. I wear a mask for him; you have seen into the very heart of me. It isn't the same."

Sara came over and stood beside the girl's chair. After a moment of indecision she laid her hand on Hetty's shoulder. The girl looked up, the ever-recurring question in her eyes.

"We haven't spoken of—of these things in many months, Hetty."

"Not since Mrs. Wrاندall and Vivian came to Nice. I was upset—dreadfully upset then, Sara. I don't know how I managed to get through with it."

"But you managed it," pronounced Sara. Her fingers seemed to tighten suddenly on the girl's shoulder. "I think we were quite wonderful, both of us. It wasn't easy for me."

"Why did we come back to New York, Sara?" burst out Hetty, clasping her friend's hand as it suddenly spurred by terror. "We were happy over there. And free!"

"Listen, my dear," said Sara, a hard note growing in her voice: "this is my home. I do not love it, but I can see no reason for abandoning it. That is why we came back to New York."

Hetty pressed her friend's hand to her lips. "Forgive me," she cried impulsively. "I shouldn't have complained. It was detestable."

"Besides," went on Sara evenly, "you were quite free to remain on the other side. I left it to you."

"You gave me a week to decide," said Hetty in a hurried manner of speaking. "I—I took but twenty-four hours—less than that. Over night, you remember. I love you, Sara. I could not leave you. All that night I could feel you pulling at my heart strings, pulling me closer, and holding me. You were in your room, I in mine, and yet all the time you seemed to be bending over me in the darkness, urging me to stay with you and love you and be loved by you. It couldn't have been a dream."

"It was not a dream," said Sara, with a queer smile.

"You do love me?" tensely.

"I do love you," was the firm answer. Sara was staring across the water, her eyes big and as black as night itself. She seemed to be looking far beyond the misty lights that bobbed with nearby schooners, far beyond the yellow masts on the opposite shore where a town lay cradled in the shadows, far into the fast darkening sky that came up like a wall out of the east.

warmer clasp. Unconsciously perhaps, Sara's grip on the girl's shoulder tightened also; unconsciously, for her thoughts were far away. The younger woman's pensive gaze rested on the peaceful waters below, taking in the slow approach of the fog that was soon to envelop the land. Neither spoke for many minutes: inscrutable thinkers, each a prey to thoughts that leaped backward to the beginning and took up the puzzle at its inception.

"I wonder—" began Hetty, her eyes narrowing with the intensity of thought. She did not complete the sentence.

Sara answered the unspoken question. "It will never be different from what it is now, unless you make it so."

Hetty started. "How could you have known what I was thinking?" she cried in wonder.

"It is what you are always thinking, my dear. You are always asking yourself when will I turn against you," Sara!

"Your own intelligence should supply the answer to all the questions you are asking of yourself. It is too late for me to turn against you." She abruptly removed her hand from Hetty's shoulder and walked to the edge of the veranda. For the first time, the English girl was conscious of pain. She drew her arm up and cringed. She pulled the light scarf about her bare shoulders.

The butler appeared in the doorway. "The telephone, if you please, Miss Castleton. Mr. Leslie Wrاندall is calling."

The girl stared. "For me, Watson?"

"Yes, miss."

Hetty had risen, visibly agitated. "What shall I say to him, Sara?" she cried.

"Apparently it is he who has something to say to you," said the other, still smiling. "Wait and see what it is. Please don't neglect to say that we'd like to have him over Sunday."

"A box of flowers has just come up from the station for you, miss," said Watson.

Hetty was very white as she passed into the house. Mrs. Wrاندall resumed her contemplation of the fog-screened sound.

"Shall I fetch you a wrap, ma'am?" asked Watson, hesitating.

"I am coming in, Watson. Open the box of flowers for Miss Castleton. Is there a fire in the library?"

"Yes, Mrs. Wrاندall."

"Mr. Leslie will be out on Saturday. Tell Mrs. Conkling."

"The evening train, ma'am?"

"No. The eleven-thirty. He will be here for luncheon."

When Hetty hurried into the library

"Good God, Sara!" Cried the Girl in Horror.

a few minutes later, her manner was that of one considerably disturbed by something that has transpired almost on the moment. Her cheeks were flushed and her eyes were reflectors of a no uncertain distress of mind. Mrs. Wrاندall was standing before the fireplace, an exquisite figure in the silken black evening gown which she affected in these days. Her perfectly modelled neck and shoulders gleamed like pink marble in the reflected glow of the burning logs. She wore no jewelry, but there was a single white rose in her dark hair, where it had been placed by the whimsical Hetty an hour earlier as they left the dinner table.

"He is coming out on the eleven-thirty, Sara," said the girl nervously, "unless you will send the motor in for him. The body of his car is being changed and it's in the shop. He must have been jesting when he said he would pay for the petrol—I should have said gasoline."

Sara laughed. "You will know him better, my dear," she said. "Leslie is very light-hearted. He suggested bringing a friend," went on Hetty hurriedly. "A Mr. Booth, the portrait painter."

"I met him in Italy. He is charming. You will like him, too, Hetty. The emphasis did not escape notice."

"It seems that he is spending a fortnight in the village, this Mr. Booth, painting spring lambs for rest and recreation, Mr. Leslie says."

"Then he is at our very gates," said Sara, looking up suddenly.

"I wonder if he can be the man I saw yesterday at the bridge," mused Hetty. "Is he tall?"

"I really can't say. He's rather vague. It was six or seven years ago."

"It was left that Mr. Wrاندall is to come out on the eleven-thirty," explained Hetty. "I thought you wouldn't like sending either of the motors in."

"And Mr. Booth?"

"We are to send for him after Mr. Wrاندall arrives. He is stopping at the inn, wherever that may be."

"Poor fellow!" sighed Sara, with a grimace. "I am sure he will like us immensely if he has been stopping at the inn."

Hetty stood staring down at the blazing logs for a full minute before giving expression to the thought that troubled her.

"Sara," she said, meeting her friend's eyes with a steady light in her own, "why did Mr. Wrاندall ask me instead of you? It is you he is coming to visit, not me. It is your house. Why should—"

"My dear," said Sara glibly, "I am merely his sister-in-law. It wouldn't be necessary to ask me if he should come. He knows he is welcome."

"Then why should he feel called upon to—"

"Some men like to telephone, I suppose," said the other coolly.

"I wonder if you will ever understand how I feel about—about certain things, Sara."

"What for instance?"

writing room of his hotel reading a play by Ibsen.

"Now, I haven't anything to do for an hour or so," she said, when he had finished dictating. "Can you direct me to a good picture show?"

She could. And did.

"I rode seven blocks and walked five, following directions, and found she had sent me to an art museum," says Bramley.

The distracted mother hastened to the nursery and said to her little daughter:

"Minnie, what do you mean by shouting and screaming? Play quietly, like Tommy. See, he doesn't make a sound."

"Of course he doesn't," said the little girl. "That is our game. He is papa coming home late and I am you."

When Shimmerplate arrived home an hour later than usual he was nibbling a clove.

"I stopped in a concert hall for a few moments," he observed. "The music was intoxicating."

"That's right!" exclaimed his better half. "Blame it on the music."

The Magic Power of Publicity

The Wisconsin Daily League will draw the dollars because its 18 papers visit every day 8,000 homes, or to nearly half a million population. If you'd sit down to write to half a million people, or to call by telephone 80,000 homes, it would take you a life-time, to say nothing about the terrific expense, the wear and tear on your health, etc.

"Yes, There Is Economy In Using Electric Light--"

No matter how modest your income, you CAN and SHOULD enjoy Electric Light in your home. Its many conveniences mean much to your family and yourself—a brighter, more cheerful home; better eyes; more healthful surroundings. Not only are the rates for electricity now very low, but you can effect additional economy by using Tungsten (Mazda) Lamps.

Tungsten (Mazda) Electric Lamps Give Three Times As Much Light

AN ENGLISH CEMENT AND HALF TIMBER HOME

By John Henry Newson

"Home of Character" No. 142

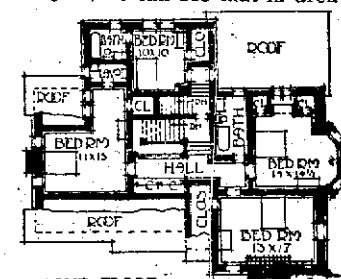

To properly describe this quaint development of an old-thatched roof cottage at Broomfield it becomes necessary to say a word concerning the growth of style in architecture. From the beginning until this day builders have been improving and modifying the architecture that has gone before. As the periods passed, each left examples of an art typifying the prevailing life, temperament, climate and politics of its time. So the periods came, developed and declined and out of each decadence grew another period. These periods of styles were far-reaching to the extent of prevailing over the entire civilized world; and at the present day is the very same occurrence going on before us—we are developing an architecture out of the past. If the reader will note the numerous replicas of old work, or developments of the old styles, he can see that in architecture, history is again repeating itself.

FIRST FLOOR

The much sought for half timber work of England, the free use of the wide, ship-lap siding of our forefathers in the colonial days, the use of stucco or cement walls, also of old England, and even the use of brick work and terra cotta as of the old Romans, all prove the above words.

SECOND FLOOR

When an old type is followed and properly carried out, true art value is everywhere apparent. When the architectural mass, or some line or detail of the old work is reproduced and incorporated in a modern home, or any other building, the sweet charm, reposeful solidity, and general fitness of things, which we call "character," is predominant. While retaining the quaint design of the old Broomfield cottage, we have worked out a plan which meets all modern requirements and makes a most convenient and home-like home. Various modifications, to meet individual requirements, can be made in the plan. The home is entered through a lofty beamed hall, at one end of which is the dining room and at the other the large living room. The living room and sun parlor occupy one entire side of the house; the dining room occupies the other, while at the rear is placed the service quarters. The large glass bay supplies an abundance of light and is placed on a center line with the hall, dining room and large chimney piece in the dining room, thus presenting a long and beautiful vista through the home with an interesting termination at either end. The porch makes a delightful dining room in the summer, having direct access to the kitchen for serving purposes, and can be used as a spacious sun parlor during the winter. The living room has a large fireplace in a tiled recess, flanked by window seats. The service part of the house is very complete and contains all the equipment needed for kitchen use. The range is set in a bricked recess with an extending hood, connecting to a ventilating flue. Each of the three bedrooms has some especially attractive feature; a fireplace in the front room, the large bay in the rear room and a complete toilet room off the chamber over the dining room. The main bath has a tile floor and wainscot and elaborate plumbing fixtures. The servant's room, with complete bath, is located over the kitchen and is reached by separate rear stairs. There is no attic, but storage space under the roof is accessible and a basement extends under the entire house.

This design should be built for from $8,500 to $15,000, depending on kind and quality of materials used, elaboration of detail, local conditions, etc.

Inquiries of Gazette readers addressed to "John Henry Newson, Homes of Character Dept., The Gazette," will be given Mr. Newson's prompt attention. Always give the number of the home concerning which inquiry is made, and, as the service is free, the enclosure of a stamp for reply will be appreciated.
